ōcha hyō

tea table

The inspiration behind this tea table was an interest in traditional Japanese craftsmanship, philosophy and aesthetics. Both Japan and Scandinavia share many design similarities and values which include an emphasis on details, simplicity, a preference for crude beauty and human craft.

ōcha hyō tea table was designed and created in 2016. ōcha hyō is a simple tea table that can easily be flat-packed consisting of wooden elements that connect without the use for glue or tools. The construction is brutalistic and made using a variety of Japanese joinery techniques.

The name ōcha hyō refers to the traditional Japanese tea ceremony where people gather around a 'ōcha hyō', a tea table, to find inner peace and serenity.

ōcha hyō is crafted and produced from materials that reflect both Japanese and Scandinavian design tradition.

Light

candle holder

The Light candle holder was designed because of an interest on how composed materials and user interaction could be united in one small object. Light is a simple candle holder, with organic aesthetics. The curved wooden shape, gives the bottom a weightless appearance. This wooden candle holder is made out of two flexible modules, which can be changed and composed exactly as you wish in various combinations and materials.

Turntable

side table with a hidden storage space

Turntable is a simple side table with a hidden storage space. By simply rotating half of the circular lid the expression is ever changeable. The three-legged construction adds a playful and light touch to the geometric shaped design. Based on the simple geometrics the table can be used in various ways. TurnTable is produced from materials and with craftsmanship that reflect traditional Scandinavian design values.

TurnTable is designed by Ditte Vad and Julie Begtrup

Elements

by Nordic Tales

Elements is a journey in materials, it is an ever expanding collection that reflects design periods in past, present and future. One could say that an Element product is a trend reference point in time, one could say that it is a small trend memory container, that materializes a design period
